Truce Debaters Set Provisional Cease-Fire Line

Agreement Reached in Korea
First Won in Four Months

MUNSAN, Korea, Nov. 27 (CP).—Allied and Red truce negotiators today approved a provisional Korean cease-fire line, then made separate proposals on ways of supervising the truce.

The U.N. command proposed a Red-Allied inspection team, free to travel anywhere in Korea to make sure that neither side builds up its armed forces after an armistice is signed.

An Allied spokesman said the Red proposal called for a joint armistice commission responsible for armistice arrangements and supervision.

He said it offered no provision for inspection behind the lines. Brig-Gen. William P. Nickols said the Communist proposal seemed to deal "with almost minor administrative details" which could be handled simply by orders from headquarters.

The two truce teams swept into item three of the agenda immediately after approving a provisional cease-fire line.

The buffer line was worked out in four months of bitter negotiations interrupted by several long suspensions of the truce talks.

It runs 43 miles north of Parallel 38 on the east coast, 28 miles north in the centre and dips 16 miles south of the old border in the west.

This cease-fire line will become permanent only if the last three issues in the armistice agenda are settled within 30 days by Dec. 27.

DIFFICULTIES STILL

All these issues supervision of the truce, exchange of prisoners and recommendations to the belligerent governments on final withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea—are loaded with difficulties.

If agreement on them is not reached within 30 days, a new cease-fire line must be drawn. But the truce teams will not sit down to that task until the other three issues have been settled.

The ratification meeting of the truce teams today was their first full-day session since Oct. 26. The day armistice talks were resumed after a two-month break by the Reds.

After ratifying the cease-fire line, the committees recessed for lunch.

MAPS INITIALED

They agreed to meet again in the afternoon to take up agenda item three, supervision of the truce.

Earlier, the staff officers had initialed two Communist maps showing the location of the buffer line. Two U.N. maps of the line were initialed yesterday.

It marked the first big success in 4½ months of bargaining since the peace talks began.

Staff officers drew a thin red line across two 14-foot maps—one for the Allies, one for the Communists—and then penned their initials.

Red Propagandists Busy—In Vain

If these four signs are any indication, the Chinese propagandists in Korea are working overtime every night in no man's land. Along with the signs, leaflets are left in tin cans attached to the posts. Like the signs, these urge peace, offer protection to P.O.W.'s or urge surrender. Result? Souvenirs for Canadian troops and caustic comments about the "messages" and the spelling. These four soldiers of the P.C.C.I. no doubt will find a use for the signs... in building winter shelters, target practice and the like. From left to right, front, Cpl. Gordon Kirby, Calgary, and Pte. Demaras In Dark About Son

LAWRENCE, Mass., Nov. 26 (INS).—Ferdinand W. Demara, Jr., 29, of Lawrence, whose amazing masquerade as a combat surgeon led to his discharge from the Canadian navy, has not been in touch with his family since he returned to the United States.

The one-time $30-a-week Boston hospital orderly walked across the international boundary at Blaine, Wash., on Friday, announcing he planned to hitchhike to Seattle and board a plane there for home.

"We haven't heard a thing from him," his father said today. "Where he is or what he's doing is something I can't answer."

Demara, posing as Dr. Joseph Cyr, won short-lived renown for performing a number of delicate operations on wounded South Korean soldiers aboard the Canadian destroyer Cayuga.

U.S. Ambassador Philip C. Jessup said the U.S. would be ready to comply if the committee voted for the resolution. He added, however, that the deputy foreign ministers of the four countries had tried vainly for more than three months last spring to reach an agreement.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky was silent on the Arab-Asian idea. He told reporters he was thinking it over.

Arab-Asian Powers Urge Disarmament

PARIS, Nov. 26 (CP).—An Arab-Asian group of small powers tried today to push the east and west toward negotiation on world disarmament.

Whether they would succeed was questionable, but the United States, for one, acted with surprising speed in accepting the proposal for a four-power disarmament meeting.

Iraq, Pakistan and Syria submitted a resolution to the 66-member United Nations political committee urging that the Big Four—Russia, the U.S., Britain and France—meet privately under assembly President Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico in an attempt to reconcile western and eastern disarmament plans.

In his first face-to-face meeting with the council since he became Atlantic Pact commander, he reported the partners are turning over troops to his command "on schedule." But he complained of a serious lag in the output of equipment and said everyone including the United States could do more.

Inside the meeting of defense ministers there were these developments:

The defense ministers accepted a document from the chiefs of staff setting forth a build-up schedule for 1951 in terms of guns, tanks, planes and men. The program is to be reviewed by the ministers in January after W. Averell Harriman, director of mutual aid, has reported on the allies' economic capabilities.

The ministers failed to solve a deadlock on setting up a north Atlantic naval command immediately.

They failed to settle the question of adopting the American 30 calibre Garand rifle, or the new British 280, as the standard allied rifle.

The ministers shelved the question of how a new Middle East command could be linked to NATO, until Greece and Turkey formally enter the alliance.

Cost of Arena Job Would Be $56,000

Engineers' Minute Examinations
Bare Structural, Mechanical Faults

By RAY BAINES

The Victoria Memorial Arena, jinxed through three years of trial and tribulation, can be put in shape once and for all for $56,124.

This was learned yesterday by members of the city council from a report submitted by the firm of consulting engineers, Swan, Rhodes & Wooster.

The report was received last Friday by Mayor Percy George and distributed to aldermen yesterday for further study.

The 30-page report contains a detailed analysis of every phase of the arena structure and operation, from the leaking roof to the faulty refrigeration plant.

See Also Story on Page 13.

In his summary report and estimate of expenditure, A. G. Swan, speaking on behalf of the firm and consulting engineers Henry Whittaker, Col. N. C. Sherman and James Multhead, divides the costs into four main headings.

BIGGEST EXPENSE

The biggest single expense would be for structural repairs, estimated at $32,274, including professional fees. Of this sum, $23,000 alone would be for repairs to the roof and $5,500 for "pointing" the concrete walls.

To make the refrigeration plant reliable, Mr. Swan quotes Col. Sherman who sets the cost at $17,400 for new coils, a new compressor unit to supplement the present two, controls and installation.

Alterations to the electrical installations would cost $3,600, according to James Multhead, and improvements to drainage of the spray pond louvers and fencing, $2,850.

In the summary, Mr. Swan concludes that leaks in the roof have been due to the ineffectiveness of the roofing product originally used to seal the exterior.

He recommends that the barrel section be treated with insulating material and the flat portion with tar and gravel roofing.

With regard to the walls, Mr. Swan states that "defects in the present condition... are clearly evident and it is desirable for the maintenance and exterior appearance of the building that the whole of the exterior wall be overhauled."

Drawing on Col. Sherman's report on the ice-making plant, Mr. Swan states that the fault mainly lies in "the inefficient operation of the plant certainly at its inception, and from the records continuing until the present time."

"So far as the operation is concerned, there is almost entire absence of log reports to indicate what has taken place in the three years of operations, this, in itself, being evidence of a lack of operating efficiency," reports Mr. Swan.

Though detailed instructions for operation were provided by the Canadian Ice Machine Co., he says, "I am satisfied that these were never adhered to."

The plant's capacity is overtaxed, and a new compressor unit is needed along with a new set of ammonia coils, the summary report goes on.

Sludge collection in the brine tanks was largely the cause of corrosion of pipes, Mr. Swan quotes from Col. Sherman's detailed report.

Mr. Swan concludes that the commission should "make its peace with the Canadian Ice Machine Co., which is one of the most reputable firms in the refrigeration business in Canada."

He suggests that the commission take advantage of the ice company's offer to supply one of its trained technicians to be engineer-in-charge of the refrigeration plant for a time.

"This is a good arrangement, in my opinion, and will pay good dividends," Mr. Swan concludes.

Reds Launch Rocket Blast Over Ridge

SEOUL, Korea, Nov. 27 (Tuesday) (AP).—Communists forces attacked eight times by day and capped the Korean fighting with a flashing rocket barrage Monday night, apparently in an effort to gain last-minute bargaining advantages in armistice talks.

The rockets ripped across the crest of "Little Gibraltar" ridge on the western front. But an expected infantry attack did not follow.

Allied officers identified the rockets as Russian-type Katyushas.

It could have been the last heavy ground fighting prior to agreement on a provisional buffer zone between the Red and Allied forces.

Battling in snow and below freezing temperatures, the United Nations yielded some ground in the west and centre but held fast on hill positions on the eastern front, the U.S. Eighth Army communique said Monday night.

In the air, 17 U.S. Sabre jets engaged nearly 60 Russian-supplied MIGs over North Korea and damaged two. The Fifth Air Force said no Sabres were lost.

Audience Howls at Farce Staged in St. Luke's Hall

A near-capacity audience last night howled its way through the first performance of Philip King's farce, "See How They Run," by the St. Luke's Players.

Originally a London hit, "See How They Run" is one of those implausible situation pieces which would completely dissolve if the characters just stood still for ten seconds.

Fortunately, they don't stand still. They run. They gallop around the stage at full tilt. And in between laps there are some wonderful lines and some hilarious plot turns.

Don Green played the Rev.

Lionel Toop with considerable authority, and Margaret Martin showed a good deal of skill and vivacity as Penelope, his wife.

A standout in the cast was Ethel Thomas as Ida, the maid. Capt. Charles Gibson's third-act portrayal of the Rev. Arthur Humphrey, a visiting parson, was a little masterpiece.

Dick Pugh played Cpl. Clive Winton, Margaret Carson was Miss Skilton. Hilda Jones played the Bishop of Lax. Henry Maunsell was the Russian spy and Peter Peacock played Sgt. Towers.

The play, directed by Flora Nicholson, continues tonight and tomorrow night at St. Luke's Parish Hall, Cedar Hill Cross-road.

Council Seat Aim Of Percy Humber

CITY workman Percy Humber, who has given up his early dream of the mayoralty, yesterday filed his nomination papers for city council.

For a second, Mr. Humber got the signature of Harry Haigh, 848 Balmoral, himself the fourth candidate for mayor.

Mr. Humber's proposer was Frank Thomas, 2818 Ross Bay Avenue.

Municipality Progresses On Buildings

Walls of the new Central Saanich municipal hall and fire hall are rising as contractors Sutton and Son, of Victoria, push ahead with the first phase of the job.

The $18,000 structure is of concrete block construction. The contract calls for completion of the roof over the fire hall by the end of the year. The hall will be ready for use next spring.

Consisting of three fire stalls and the municipal offices, the building stands on the East Saanich Road at Wallace Drive. Arthur Lionel, Central Saanich building inspector, is the architect.

Player Dealt Dream Hand In Crib Game

A perfect cribbage hand of 29 points was dealt to Robert Caley, 3931 Rainbow, Sunday night, while he was playing against his father-in-law, George Hawkins, of 2624 Fernwood. Three times during the evening he held three fives and a jack, but only once did he turn up the deciding five-spot to give himself the hand that crib players dream about.

Part of the world's first atomic heating plant is shown during its early stages of construction at the atomic research establishment in Harwell, England. Now in operation, the unit heats an 80-room office building through a hot-water heating system that originates in an atomic pile. There is no danger of radioactivity and the water itself may be safely used for washing, it was announced. Tests have proved that revolutionary heating system will save about 1,000 tons of coal per year. (Central Press Canada.)

M.P.'s to Investigate Manufacturing Costs

OTTAWA, Nov. 26 (CP).—Profits and manufacturing costs of consumer goods will be studied by Parliament's special committee on retail price-fixing, Commerce Minister T. D. MacDonald will assist.

on today after some members expressed skepticism when an electrical equipment manufacturer, during cross-examination, stated he did not know what it cost him to manufacture his goods.

J. R. Longstaff, president of Renfrew Electric and Refrigerator Co., Renfrew, Ont., said many factors went into compilation of costs. He had been in business many years, but he still did not know what his costs were, he said.

George Hees (PC Toronto Broadview), also a manufacturer, questioned the statement. He believed manufacturers knew what their costs were, even on a day-to-day basis, he said.

A. Wesley Stuart (L. Charlotte) said the committee would be wasting its time if it did not investigate manufacturers' costs and could not show the people why certain margins of profit were necessary.

B. Napier Simpson of Toronto, general manager of the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers Association, agreed to work with the committee to detail manufacturers' mark-ups, on the understanding that only figures would be made public and names of manufacturers would be kept confidential.

B.C.E.R. Net Termed Low For Investors

VANCOUVER, Nov. 26 (CP).—A Toronto investment expert told the Public Utilities Commission today there has not been sufficient increase in British Columbia Electric's net revenue to make the company "an attractive proposition to investors."

Courland Elliott was testifying on behalf of the company at the public hearing on the B.C.E. application to increase its rate of allowed return on investment from 5.8 to 7.5 per cent of its depreciated property value.

Mr. Elliott showed tables of figures to illustrate that while the company's property account had increased 72.81 per cent between 1946 and 1950 and its net property account had increased 103.55 per cent and the number of kilowatt hours sold had increased 75.86 per cent in the same time, the percentage increase in electric revenue had been only 55.07 per cent.

"In my opinion," Mr. Elliott said, "there has not been a sufficient increase in net revenue to make this company an attractive proposition to investors."

He said the B.C.E. was outstanding among Canadian companies because of its "phenomenal growth" in the post-war years. It had an appeal for investors on this basis.

The new approach to the blood vessel disease, which kills 43,000 persons a year, was described by Dr. John P. Merrill, associate at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston.

He said that hypertension, for which there is no effective treatment, was being changed into Addison's disease.

The procedure involves the removal of the adrenal glands, which are suspected of causing the enlarged blood vessels characteristic of hypertension. The operation causes Addison's disease, a hormone deficiency ailment which is checked by hormones introduced artificially into the body.

Salmon Arm School Doors Still Closed

SALMON ARM, B.C., Nov. 26 (CP).—The 510 children of Salmon Arm municipality found doors of their schools still shut today. The students have been shut out of their schools since September when the municipality rejected a by-law which would give additional money to the school trustees.

School trustees, against whom a writ of mandamus was issued recently ordering them to open schools to the municipal students, exhausted every means of reopening the schools during the week-end.

Trustees estimated they would need $4,935 to enable them to open schools today.

They have instructed counsel to request a stay of proceedings from the Supreme Court of Canada.

Meanwhile the municipal students are receiving their education through provincial government correspondence courses.

Adrenals Removed For Hypertension

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26 (INS).—A physician in Los Angeles for the fifth annual urologic post graduate convention said today that research is being conducted to see whether hypertension can be controlled by changing it into a disease for which there is a treatment.

The new approach to the blood vessel disease, which kills 43,000 persons a year, was described by Dr. John P. Merrill, associate at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston.

It's Nice to Dream

THE vision of a city treasury which will provide for all of the outlays of the City of Victoria out of revenue without borrowing is so nice that one wishes thoroughly that it might come true. Unfortunately cities have to be run not on election promises but on the hard facts of life. This city is already committed to the Greater Victoria School Board for a considerable future outlay on account of urgently needed schools, where British Columbia shares the construction cost on a dollar for dollar basis. It is also committed, although in a less tangible degree, to the Greater Victoria Water Board which has an ambitious program ahead; one which this city must assist if it wants its share of the water. There are also some items like roads which have to be reconstructed, and odds and ends of similar nature.

One way with another, the prospect of Victoria getting through the next few years without any capital expense—and all capital expense must be met by borrowing because there are no material civic reserves—would appear to be remote, little as the taxpayers or anyone else may like that. Nevertheless, even if it doesn't take us anywhere, it is nice sometimes to dream; especially at election time, when all things seem possible until they are tried. Dreaming, however, can be an expensive business if it is not backed up by something more definite and effective than human wishfulness. With a good deal of work to be done in the next ten years Victoria will need something more tangible than visions to put on the counter.

Long ago this paper pointed out one source which the city has been slow to develop, and that is the assessment roll. The community has about doubled in size since the city assessment roll was revised generally from the ground up. Values have altered greatly since then, and improvements have been added at a tremendous rate. Current tax bills show anomalies that come from a patched-up assessment roll, with high tax bills and low tax bills on about the same relative types of real property value. What the city would secure in revenue from an up to date and revised assessment can only be surmised; but with outlays going up it is high time that the income side of the ledger was regarded also. With total city revenues, however, capital works will still require capital outlays and that means borrowing.

No Double Dunning

PROVINCIAL Health Minister Turnbull has acted with commendable speed to remove an unforeseen difficulty which had arisen in connection with the system of co-insurance incorporated in the Hospital Insurance Act by the legislature when the scheme was amended last spring.

Under the statute, beneficiaries are not required to pay co-insurance beyond a maximum of 10 days' hospitalization in any one "yearly" period; and receipts so far issued by the hospitals showed that the first yearly period would end Dec. 31 next, coinciding with the hospital insurance premium year, which covers the period Jan. 1 to Dec. 31. As co-insurance did not go into effect until April 1 last, however, beneficiaries who used up their 10-day period in the current calendar year and re-entered hospital between Jan. 1 and March 31 would be liable to a second demand for co-insurance contributions, even though the later hospitalization would be within one 12-month period.

The anomaly was noted editorially in The Colonist a week ago, and the minister immediately took the matter under review. As a result the terminating date of the first co-insurance year has been extended to March 31 as a temporary measure. This creates an administrative difficulty of another kind, since the co-insurance year will overlap the first quarter of the next premium year. However, all aspects of the scheme are due for complete overhaul by the legislature next session, after the special inquiry committee has reported, and problems such as this can be worked out then, as the minister has pointed out.

In the meantime Mr. Turnbull's action removes any possibility of unintentional hardship financially. It is fortunate that the statute is sufficiently flexible to enable him to meet the situation in this way.

End of an Odyssey

THE pseudo surgeon-lieutenant who fooled both the Navy and the immigration department was admittedly a delicate proposition for officialdom to handle. He had landed it in an embarrassing situation. It is never nice to be taken in, and the normal reaction to such a situation is to say as little as possible about the subject.

This would account for the hush-hush atmosphere that enveloped the offender after he was brought to this coast, and for the celerity with which the necessary courts of inquiry were held. The main idea was to get rid of the man who had made things awkward, and to do it as quickly and quietly as possible.

All quite understandable, although in the event it added to the mystery of this brilliant but wayward imposter. While Victorians fondly imagined he was still in their vicinity, for instance, he had already been set free to go home. This in accordance with a practice which permits officials to say one thing and do another, a custom hallowed by government example but one which in private life would meet with distinct disfavor.

It is also apparently standard procedure to let deportees depart themselves. There was seemingly nothing to stop Mr. Demara when he left here on his own from going to some other part of Canada and reappearing in a new guise. As it happens he went dutifully to Blaine and re-entered his own country, leaving behind him heartfelt sighs of official relief. He has also left some respect for his talents, and the hope that he will put them to legitimate and thus better use in future. An intriguing figure from beginning to end of his Canadian odyssey, this pseudo surgeon-lieutenant.

VICTORIA NURSING HOME

Sir,—The need for a nursing home to take care of our senior citizens has become very acute. Many of our chronically ill elderly people are unable to procure proper care. Hospitals are over-taxed and cannot accommodate chronic cases. The housing situation at the present time is such that many young families are unable to care for their ailing parents. We have pensioners living alone who are ill and in need of nursing care and we feel it is our duty to provide help for them at any time in their lives when they are unable to help themselves.

We have lately noticed in the press different organizations and letters from individuals stressing the need for the 100-bed addition to the Victoria Nursing Home. The Victoria Nursing Home is not a profit-making institution. It is operated solely for the purpose of caring for the aged and indigent and with the growing population in this area, the home and facilities are wholly inadequate to cope with the situation.

We, the Victoria Nursing Home Auxiliary, would like to stress the urgent need for the 100-bed addition to the present nursing home and urge the city council to find ways and means to finance their share of the cost of this project.

A REPLY

Sir,—As a candidate for Saanich council I take pleasure in replying to the letter from John Kenny, which appeared in Sunday's Colonist.

I cannot offer my support to Mr. Kenny on the following grounds. Poll tax is collected from those whose contribution to the maintenance of the community is made in no other form. Should its collection be abolished there would be no payment made directly to the revenue of the municipality from those who own no property or business.

Such a state of affairs places an unfair burden upon those who are paying the many taxes to which a property owner is liable. There is no justification in relieving the burden from the shoulders of a man to place it on the already far more heavily burdened shoulders of his fellow.

I am in favor of the continuance of this source of municipal revenue.

This will be my stand until the provincial government will make some direct form of contribution to the municipalities in this place.

MILK DELIVERIES

Sir,—Surely something more than talk should result from the much-discussed milk problem, and it is a real problem.

In fairness to consumer, distributor and producer, three-week delivery would cut the expense in half. Add to this a franchise, which would eliminate the wastage of other milk trucks running over the same route, thus cutting the delivery in half again with the result that milk can be delivered for a quarter the cost.

Milk being standardized at 3.5 butterfat, which the milk board feels it right to do, why not take on this responsibility and bring about this saving, and pass it on to producer, distributor and consumer?

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I MUST say I was surprised. What about? Well, by an item I saw in the paper not long ago, to wit: that there's to be a bagpipe class in the music festival next year.

More than one, in fact; as many as will accommodate these things they call strathspeys, reels and the like.

Shades of the Belmont Building! What about those Civil Service ears that were affronted during the summer? Should they not get a break? For this means, of course, that the owners of these delicate organs will be barred from the festival—or attend only at their peril.

I submit, humbly, that the Scots have put it over us again. (This is an objective discussion, so I'm leaving my accent out of it.) They've accomplished a near-miracle in having the pibroch branded officially as music.

Do I hear a groan?

"And still they say the Scots can't laugh. Which brings to mind the tale of the English comedian who went north to do his stuff and had his jokes received in dead silence. But . . . After the show a man came up to him and said: 'Mon, ye were that funny I could hardly keep frae laughin'!'"

See? Talk about an Irish bull: like this one, maybe. Two very old men were looking over the new cemetery. "I'd rather die than lie in a place like that!" said the first one. "No!" said the second man. "I'd like it fine as a pie here—if I'm spared."

But then if the bagpipe came from Ireland, as the traducers say, maybe so did the Aberdeen factory that turns out the jokes. Fergus took them along with him. I daresay, when he lugged the Stone Stone across the Irish Sea to Scotland, where, as you know, it rested until Edward came along and—er—pinched it.

Funny thing about stolen goods, isn't it? Time blesses them so that if a few centuries pass they lose all claim to their native habitat. Although it didn't work out that way for the Arabs in Israel.

Maybe that's why the Arabs I once heard play the bagpipes—at a wedding, mind you—would never be entered in the Victoria music festival. They must have been lamenting in advance.

I needn't elaborate on the musical aspect of the Great Highland Bagpipe; ask the people in the Belmont Building if you want the (un) biased truth. But I'll tell you how the argument arose. It goes back to Charlie and the '45, for after Flora kissed him good-bye (if she did kiss him), the bagpipe was proscribed. That, proclaim the legalists, removed it from the list of musical instruments.

Referring to the horse's mouth, as it were. They tell me there's a chap in Glasgow who was a famous army pipe-major. Now he makes the thing he used to blow. And do you know what he said about piping when queried as to whether he considered it an art, a craft, or a business?

A speculative pause, and then: "I'd say it was a disease."

"Ah, but what a disease," reply Pipe-Majors Jimmy Marrs and Ian Duncan. "Only real men can cope with it." (Well, frankly, they didn't say that, but I'm sure they would if I were to ask them.)

You've heard about the Scot who died and went to Heaven. He had the disease, in correct position under his left armpit. When he knocked on the Golden Gate St. Peter poked his head out.

"Well?"

"Can I no' get comin' in?"

"Where are you from?"

"Scotland, of course, where else?"

"Way down below. We can't start making porridge for one!"

Even Peter, you see, knew about bagpipes.

Ah well, I'm neutral. The pipes I can take or leave alone. But I must say the festival folk surprise me, just the same. (I didn't know they had so much wisdom.)

Reports From Ottawa

ALMOST overnight, it seems, Ottawa has broken out in a rash of speculation over the possibility of a federal general election next year.

Conservative speculation—conservative with a small "c"—that is, runs to 3-to-2 odds in favor of an election, probably in June.

But one Liberal M.P., who has been an important figure in party councils for longer than some of the younger M.P.'s can remember, is "certain" that the St. Laurent government will go to the polls soon after the 1952 session of parliament ends.

By next June, the St. Laurent administration will have been in office under its own steam for three years. That's not quite par for the course; four years is the usual run of a term of office before an election. But if the prime minister decides an earlier election is better or more advantageous than a later one, his decision is final.

One can make a very strong case for believing that he already has so decided. For example, as one politician put it, "The Old Age Pensions Act is too good to waste on a non-election year." The new $40-a-month universal pension at 70 comes into effect January 1. What would be more natural than that the Liberals would want to reap political advantage from it by going to the people with it as the newest and most lustrous star in their banner?

Then there's the one-third increase in disabled veterans' pensions starting January 1, and the government's promise to review war veterans' allowances next session, and presumably do something about them. It's all prime election material for the Grits.

With the possibility of an election in mind, other things take on new meaning. The extension of Governor-General Lord Alexander's term of office, for example. It looks as though St. Laurent is deliberately holding Alexander here so the government can go to the people without having had to nominate another governor-general. For if Alexander's successor is a Briton, it will displease Quebec, and if he is a Canadian the Progressive Conservatives will be able to charge the Grits with breaking another tie with Britain.

Finance Minister Abbott's "miscellaneous" revenues by about half a billion dollars also appears fortuitous for the Grits. What more natural than that Abbott should decide, in view of over-taxation this year, to cut taxes next spring. And what would be welcomed more warmly by the electors?

Many have wondered why St. Laurent has delayed a major cabinet reorganization so long. Latest report is that he'll shake up the executive right after this parliamentary session. Thus that delayed reorganization could also double in brass for the one which invariably precedes an election.

True, the cost of living is high, and the people are restive. But living costs probably will go higher the longer the government waits, particularly when the economy takes the full brunt of the defense program. Action to ban retail price fixing, which now may not be taken until next session, could result in temporary price reductions just before a June election.

And then there's St. Laurent's well-known desire to retire from politics at a time propitious for the nation's and the party's welfare. He'll be 70 on February 1. With a June election, he could be out by the time he's 71. For the good of the party's fortunes in Quebec, he must fight another election—win or lose, he could resign after a few months, in favor of a new Liberal leader chosen at a convention next summer.

Thus there are many signs spelling "Election in 1952"—and not one strong reason why the Liberals shouldn't go to the people next year.

EXPERIMENTS conducted by an Iowa radio manufacturer and the National Bureau of Standards, says a news item, indicate the feasibility of bouncing high-frequency waves off the moon, thus greatly increasing the range of radio and television. This presents fascinating possibilities.

A most popular song might pick up "oomph" bounced off a lover's moon. And the hunter's moon would doubtless add quite a touch to the 5 o'clock westerners for the small fry. Market reports should get extraordinary range relayed by a harvest moon. Some political speeches might be marred—and some quite improved, by contact with the green cheese moon is sometimes said to be made of.

As for the crooners—billiard their waves off the moon would dog days at. Most "soap opera" would find sympathy in Shakespeare's Inconstant moon. Football broadcasts should avoid Saturday's moon, which folklore says brings wet weather.

A blue moon probably comes often enough to serve as a reflector for those rarely superlative programs. And while we're in a cynical mood, there are several things on the air we'd like to see carried off the moon when it's the dark of.

SOMETHING LACKED

To a manufacturer of gimcracks came the factory engineer to display the latest novelty dreamed up by the technical staff. "Here," the engineer triumphantly announced, "we have combined the following items: An ink-

well, a small clock, a pencil sharpener, a memo pad, an interest table and a calendar. Up on top is a miniature elephant with a cask on his back. In the cask is a place for postage stamps, matches and buttons, while on top of the cask is a pin cushion. Don't you think that's a dandy combination?"

The manufacturer stared quizzically at the weird contraption and a frown creased his brow. "There's something lacking," he finally announced. Then suddenly he smiled. "I know what it needs! From somewhere should come music!"

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

IN the days of big hats among the ladies, hats requiring hat-pins eight to ten inches long, there were seldom cases of the fair sex being molested or disturbed by males. A lady with a ten-inch hat-pin was more dangerous than a porcupine.

When I was a boy, we had a school teacher who was famous among us for having stuck a hat-pin into a marauder who tried to snatch her purse. She really stuck it in; for the rascal developed peritonitis from the jab and very nearly died. As I recall it, no action was taken against the lady, since hat-pins could not legally be fitted as offensive weapons.

There are still modest-sized hat-pins to be seen nowadays, and for all we can tell, they serve as deterrents to offensive males. The law does not allow girls to carry pistols, knives or brass knuckles; but there is nothing to prevent a girl carrying a good long steel pin, with a fine fancy head or knob on it for a grip. If she wears it in her lapel, having no hat, what is the law? Might not a lady carry a hat-pin in the expectation of wounding a hat?

The law has always been embarrassed by the ladies. It doubtless still is. To the male mind, a long hat-pin is a peculiarly intimidating weapon. Toughs who have no fear of blows will cringe at the thought of being jabbed with a pin. The proof of this is the hypodermic needle. How often do you see great big men faint in an army inoculation line-up, at the mere proximity of the nasty little syringe?

Whenever the fair sex becomes disturbed by an outbreak of molestation, all they have to do is buy hats that need hat-pins, or wear a hat-pin in the lapel, and finger it meditatively if they detect the baleful eye of the drunk or the molester on them. The baleful eye will be hastily averted. Men have a deep instinctive horror of needles and pins.

In Praise of Insomnia

(From The Canadian Doctor)

ALTHOUGH it may not seem so in the middle of the following afternoon, a night spent in insomnia is not without its advantages. To be sure, the afternoon can be difficult, when the hours march so slowly as to seem almost immovable, when the head grows heavier with each motionless minute. But this is only an after-effect of a night of insomnia, and is not the thing itself. It is like many other occasions, happenings and things, when the after-effect is worse than the incident.

Despite the old saying, the bite really is worse than the bark. The drowsy after-effect of insomnia being far worse than the hours spent in rambling thought and contemplation by night. It is customary, indeed, to couple insomnia with the idea that its followers are victims, or sufferers, thus making of insomnia a dreaded matter, a growling kind of bark. To a realist, however, insomnia is no such terrible thing, and is quite undeserving of its evil reputation. If they realized fully the advantages of insomnia, far fewer people would spend the night counting sheep jumping fences, and since a numerical array of sheep usually does not bring sleep anyway, that probably proves the subconscious knows best.

Nor is the cause of insomnia bad, not always. To be sure, the guilty head is said to lie uneasy upon the pillow, while its mind reviews recent murders, embezzlements and wild throws to mind. It is said, too, that restless sleep is the due of those who are slothful, who have put over until tomorrow what should have been done today. Possibly all this is so, although on the evidence it would seem that the slothful should sleep easily.

It takes an active mind to attract insomnia, while it is the passive mind alone which will accept without dispute the fact that tomorrow is, after all, just a continuation of today, and so will sleep while the scenery is being shifted for the next act. Instead of being based upon things that are wholly regrettable, however, insomnia, as likely as not, may be based upon things that are good.

Others I see whom these surround—

Yet now respite itself is mild,
Even as the winds and waters are,

Saanich Rejects Plan By Recreation Council

Suggested formation of a civic recreation commission has been rejected by Saanich municipality. The suggestion was received at last night's meeting in a letter from the Recreation Council of Greater Victoria.

Mr. Mrs. Grace Shaw said she felt that if a commission was established it would destroy the incentive of small voluntary municipal groups responsible for much of the recreation program now handled. She couldn't see any advantage in the proposal, she added.

"A council was formed before and it took all its money for administration," said Reeve Joseph Casey.

The provincial government will be asked to move bus shelters of the health centre and the cemetery from present locations to the new highway, council said. Council last night endorsed Reeve Casey's action in ordering a former fireman's pay check withheld until his last uniform issue had been turned in to the department.

Car Accidents Cause Damage To Fence, Sign

A series of accidents kept city police busy on Sunday.

Medium damage was caused in a two-car collision at Blanshard and Humboldt. The cars were driven by Thomas L. Fisher, 1123 Topaz, and Joseph Hiquelhan, Todd Inlet, B.C.

A car driven by John B. MacLeod, 3118 Rutledge, was in collision with a car owned by John Melvyn Logie, 1773 Denman, parked on Gorge Road. Damage was moderate.

Police said damage was moderate in a collision at Hillside and Douglas. Cars were driven by Alfred Armitage, 3608 Douglas, and William H. C. Ley, 1312 Pandora. A street indicator sign was knocked down as a result of the accident.

About 20 feet of board fence was ripped up at 623 Wilson when a car driven by Gordon F. Miller, 619 Dupplin, failed to make the corner of William and Wilson.

Sloan Proposal Supported By Publication

Establishment of a Forest Commission as recommended by Chief Justice Gordon McE. Sloan is backed by the publication The Truck Logger.

In its November issue the publication says the Sloan recommendations were sound when made in 1945 and are still sound today.

Commissioner Sloan recognized that the key to sustained yield in British Columbia was long-range planning, divorced from any short-term considerations of either government or industry, the publication said.

The report added that Commissioner Sloan gave the opinion the Forest Commission should consist of not less than three and not more than five members and that it should direct the activities of the B.C. Forest Service.

Saanich Council Approves Proposals For Traffic Precautions Near School

Several proposals for improved traffic safety near Tillicum Street School have received approval from Saanich Council.

The proposals were given to council last night, following a meeting of the school parent-teacher association with the municipal police commission.

Resignation of a second fireman, R. G. Mowat, 3140 Seaton, from the department was accepted by council.

Rejected as contrary to zoning were applications from L. D. McCorquodale, 666 Gorge Road West and G. Soares, 4048 Zinnia Road, concerning buildings on their property.

Owner of property in 1800 block Haultain will be informed that council wishes removal of a partially constructed building following a report of the municipal building inspector and complaints of neighbors.

A one-room annex at the old Strawberry Vale elementary school will be moved behind the new structure to be used for parks purposes. Council approved the request from board of school trustees, District 61.

Final reading was given by laws providing for referendums on playground expenditures and school sidewalk construction, to be presented to voters in December elections.

Mr. Mrs. Grace Shaw will speak over CJVI Dec. 8 at 8:15 p.m. explaining both referendums.

A leading radio manufacturing company has announced in New York a new invention which allegedly can spot and help intercept enemy planes at tremendous distances, and even knock guided missiles out of the skies.

The invention is said to combine the principles of television, radar, microwave relay and the latest methods of detection and direction finding.

The Canadian Scene

For the first time in years, grain was being loaded yesterday in the port of Prince Rupert. A Japanese freighter was loading 300,000 bushels of wheat for Japan.

An attempt made in Ottawa by the railways to hoist freight rates on domestic grain movements in the west—exempt from rate increases for three-and-a-half years—ran into opposition yesterday before the Board of Transport Commissioners. The proposed increase would add about $1,760,000 to the annual freight bill.

In Vancouver, a Labor Relations Board ruling decertifying the Marine Workers and Boilermakers Union, Local 1 (C.C.L.) as bargaining agent for 10 Vancouver-wooden-boatyards has been upheld in Supreme Court.

The Senate in Ottawa has approved the principle of Canada's new plan for $10-a-month pensions for all at 70. There was one dissenting voice—that of Senator William Duff (L-Nova Scotia), himself 79.

Sought from coast to coast for 16 years in the United States, one of the top criminals of that country has given himself up in New York. Martin Dembin, 39, was described as "a tired, beaten bank robber making a futile living at the gentle art of hooking rugs."

An Ottawa dispatch says about 4,000 Canadians have made war claims to the government against the Japanese, including 1,750 former prisoners of war and 125 former civilian internees. Claims total about $2,635,000. None have yet been paid.

The House of Commons in London has crushed a rebellion in the Labor party against the Japanese peace treaty, signed while the Attlee government was in power. Approval of the pact was won over opposition led by Bevan left-wingers.

The government in Ottawa says that seven ships of the Ming Sun Industrial Company of Canada, flying the Canadian flag, have apparently gone into hiding in Red China waters.

From Here and There

A reminder from London says Prime Minister Winston Churchill will be 77 on Friday—but he will be too busy to indulge in reminiscences. Instead, the Prime Minister will be following his full-day schedule in office, beginning usually with breakfast in bed at about 9 a.m., and continuing until the small hours.

Interviewed in Strasbourg, France, Major-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P. for Nanaimo, said the North Atlantic treaty has prompted Canada to take a new interest in progress toward European unity.

Sewer Tenders In Saanich Top $900,000

Two tenders of more than $900,000 were opened by Saanich Council last night for proposed sewer construction in the Gorge Park and San Sebastian Auto Court districts.

Dawson Wade bid was $937,755.61. Campbell Bennett bid $901,819.25. The tenders were referred to the council sewer committee and engineer H. D. Dawson for a report.

The work is the first of a two-part scheme. Work covered by tenders opened last night includes two tunnels, a large and a small pump station, an 18-inch rising main and portions of two trunk lines.

Tenders for the second stage of the work will be called next year, Mr. Dawson said.

Kurt Meyer, in Germany, Tolls Nationalism's Knell

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OFFLEBEN, Germany, Nov. 26 (CP)—Kurt Meyer, German major-general sentenced to life imprisonment for war crimes, said Sunday—in the midst of his first freedom in seven years—that he went to Canada as a "fanatical German" and came back to Germany "convinced that all nationalism is dead."

He was interviewed by a Canadian Press reporter within easy sight of the Russian zone in a meeting that was a surprise to both of them.

The imprisoned former S.S. leader came to his mother's home in this coal-mining village only two days ago under a system which he said allows war prisoners to go home alone on leave from time to time.

This reporter went to Offleben to interview Meyer's wife and was amazed to step into a room where Meyer himself was romping with three of his five children. Neighbors kept a casual watch in nearby homes in case Communists tried to take him behind the Iron Curtain—only 300 yards away.

The man who is serving a life sentence because he was found responsible for the shooting of 18 Canadian prisoners-of-war in Normandy in 1944—said he'll return Saturday to West military prison where he was transferred recently from Canada.

These are Meyer's key words: "I went to Canada a fanatical German. I came back convinced from all I could read and gather from talks that nationalism is dead, whether it be German, British or any other. A United Europe is the only answer."

He was told some Canadians think the Canadian government eventually will release him and was asked whether he expects to get his freedom. He said he has had no official word about a release, but this reporter's impression of his reaction was that Meyer entertains considerable hopes of one.

To the question whether he would become a soldier again if given his freedom, Meyer replied: "I would become a soldier again only as a member of a European army, not as a member of a German army alone. What would be the use of a German army alone? We must train the youth of Europe to think not of Germany or France or Belgium alone but of Europe as an entity."

He did not refer specifically to current efforts to reach agreement on a six-power European

At a preliminary hearing in city police court, Const. Knowles said that on November 16 he and

He added that Mothershead threatened to kill the constables before the night was out "even if I have to get a shotgun."

Counsel for the accused was George Gregory.

Mr. Winch has read the report, but as he points out to Mr. Scott in the letter, "I was only to obtain a brief loan of it on condition that it was considered confidential."

Nothing has been released from the report giving any hint of what became of the large sums obtained by the swindler. The report said Gillies had been "living high" Securities and property are not accounted for.

Golf Club Ready To Drill for Oil

EDMONTON, Nov. 26 (CP).—

The Edmonton Golf and Country Club, which decided last July to get into Alberta's oil hunt, will drill its first well Tuesday on club property about four miles south of the city.

The golf club has retained 50 per cent of the oil rights, turning the other half over to an investment company which has sold shares back to club members.

The first well will be drilled on the club's old nine-hole layout, no longer being used for golf.

Milk Drivers' Request Tabled

CITY council last night considered a request by the milk drivers' union for a change in the bylaw regulating hours of milk delivery from 6 a.m. to 8 a.m.

The committee heard representatives from several smaller producers' ventures who declared they were opposed to the change.

Spokesman A. G. Lamborn said it would restrict the "delivery of an essential food" and prevent the farmer from getting early morning cream.

Under the present bylaw the drivers for larger companies can make their own arrangements with the companies to commence delivery at 8 a.m. if they wish, he said.

A delegation from the drivers of the three main city dairies also appeared to speak in support of the request.

Spokesman for the North Vancouver Dairy, Ross Morrison, said his company had a 10 per cent turnover of drivers payable to the road for 1951 at last.

The companies who favored the change of hours the day before last, the day before, he said, had the day could not expect the three companies to leave the early morning business to their opposition. The early fair way was to continue deliveries to be made after 8 a.m.

Asked if the change and the resultant cut in costs to the companies would lower the price of milk, Wharve McMurphy of Palm Dairies said it would "certainly stop price of milk going up."

A city dairy has come out in favor of the request by the drivers for a change in the city bylaw hours of delivery.

In a letter to city council, F. H. A. Norton of North-western Creamery Ltd. in favor of the change in order to overcome the hazard of delivery during the dark and frosty mornings, and to provide better family relations for the drivers.

The numerous advantages of daylight delivery, especially in the winter months, certainly indicate that it should be put into effect at this time," the letter states.

Pets Celebrate Birthdays

Joint birthday celebration was held at home of Mrs. J. and Mr. E. J. in Victoria, B.C., for their two pets, both of whom were born Nov. 27, 1947. The cat, a Siamese, and the dog, a white terrier, were both born on the same day and at the same place.

Japanese Oranges Arrive in Quantity

AROUND TOWN

Large quantities of Japanese oranges have arrived in Victoria this year, and are now being sold in the local market. The oranges are of high quality and are expected to be popular with the local population.

The oranges are being sold in the local market at a low price, making them an attractive option for many consumers. The arrival of the oranges is a welcome addition to the local fruit supply.

The Victoria West Community Club has asked the city to erect stop signs at corners of Catharine and Wilson Streets and Catharine and Skimmer.

Culbertson on Bridge

Many players have the wrong idea about bridge. Having opened with spades one diamond and having received a spade response from partner, they feel that they should make a jump rebid of diamonds whenever they have a strong suit and about one honor-trick more than they needed for their opening. This is not a realistic concept. Much more is involved in this question of making a jump rebid. Let's look at a deal.

South West: Vulnerable.

NORTH
 ♠ K 8 7 3
 ♥ J 6 5
 ♣ K 8 3 2

WEST
 ♥ K 9 7 2
 ♦ A 8 5 3
 ♣ Q 6 4

EAST
 ♠ A 3 5 2
 ♥ Q J 4
 ♦ 9 6
 ♣ J 10 9 7

SOUTH
 ♠ A 8 3
 ♥ K Q J 10 7 2
 ♦ A 5
 ♣ A 5

This was the bidding in a rubber game:

| | South | West | North | East |
|---|-------|------|-------|------|
| 1 | Pass | 1 | Pass | Pass |
| 2 | Pass | 2 | Pass | Pass |
| 3 | Pass | 3 | Pass | Pass |
| 4 | Pass | Pass | Pass | Pass |

The crux of this situation is that South is not quite strong enough to make a jump rebid, and that he should content himself with a bid of two diamonds, on the theory that game anywhere is unlikely if North then chooses to pass. Moreover, if South plays a leastening game contract when his side actually could have made game at spades or no-trump, the loss is not great in view of the 100 honors.

Word of Mouth Best Boost for B.C., Says Eyres

Every British Columbian should try Minister Leslie Eyres said in his review of the province's radio address last night.

Mr. Eyres said his department encourages British Columbians to spend their holidays within the province, but when they do cross the border, he said they should boost B.C. as a vacation paradise.

Mr. Eyres outlined the work of the provincial travel bureau, which he said uses "almost every known media of advertising, including speech, radio, television, photographs, motion pictures and pamphlets, newspapers and magazines."

But he said the best promotion is by word of mouth.

"Let us all be goodwill ambassadors when we are away from home, or when we are entertaining our visitors, by telling people of British Columbia's magnificent beauty spots, its scenic highways, its towering mountain ranges, its kindly climate, its abundance of fish and game, its splendid provincial and national parks, its miles and miles of coastal waters and ocean-viewing beaches, its fine accommodations, and above all, the friendly atmosphere extended to the stranger within our gates."

which has given rise to so much favorable comment.

He said the travel bureau annually reaches 58,000,000 people through advertising in magazines, newspapers and on billboards. It sends out 40 tons of descriptive literature every year.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - By Howard Garis
THREE POLICE DOGS
Uncle Wiggily, who, out for a Halloween adventure, was wearing the costume of Chief, the police dog, stood beside Jackie Row Wow. Jackie was dressed like Uncle Wiggily himself.
The woods of Woodland were filled with jolly Halloweeners and among them, but not very long, were the three strange new foxes who had dressed up like cats. They had come out in the moonlight to try and catch Uncle Wiggily. But the rabbit gentleman himself had soon discovered that the cats were really foxes. How did you know them, Uncle Wiggily? whispered Jackie Row Wow.
"I heard the name Clarence and I remembered," said Mr. Longears.
"Maybe, because you are dressed like Chief, the police dog, you have become a sort of detective just for Halloween," said Jackie.
"Maybe so," admitted Mr. Longears. "Now, Jackie, these three foxes, dressed like Halloween cats, think that you are the real Uncle Wiggily. They are planning to pounce on you and try to take you to their den."
"Oh, I wouldn't like that," said Jackie. "I guess I will take off my masquerade suit, that makes me look like you, Uncle Wiggily. I will just be myself—Jackie Row Wow. Anyhow, Halloween is almost over."
"No, Jackie, don't change your costume," said Uncle Wiggily. "If I look enough like Chief, the police dog, to fool you, Jackie, I can fool the three foxes who are pretending to be cats. Just stay where you are and wait for the three masquerading cats to sneak up on you, Jackie."
"Suppose they come close enough to grab me?" asked Jackie.
"I will take care of that," whispered the make-believe police dog who was really Uncle Wiggily. "I will hide behind this big tree."
"O.K., Uncle Wiggily," whispered Jackie. "I hope everything will be all right."
"It will be. Don't worry," said Mr. Longears. "Remember that I look enough like Chief, the police dog, to fool the three foxes pretending to be cats. I'll be right behind you when those foxes try to grab you."
Jackie stood out in the moonlight. He really did look very much like Uncle Wiggily. The foxes were completely fooled.
"Ha! Ha!" laughed Clarence the boy fox, beneath his cat false face. "We will get Uncle Wiggily this time, won't we, Dad?"
"Don't be too sure," said Mr. Fox.
"That's right!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily the masquerading police dog. "Don't be too sure. Something surprising is going to happen."
The three cat foxes crept closer and closer to Jackie Row Wow, who was pretending to be Uncle Wiggily. Jackie stood there bravely. He knew Uncle Wiggily was right back of him in the shadows cast by the moon on a mulberry bush.
"Ready now! Grab Uncle Wiggily!" snapped Mr. Fox in his cat costume.
"Yes, now is the time," yapped Mr. Fox. "Come on, Clarence!"
"I am coming!" yapped Clarence the boy fox. This time he forgot to move like a cat, which he was pretending to be. "I'll get him!"
"And I will get you!" shouted Uncle Wiggily, jumping out from back of the mulberry bush. "Paws off you cat foxes!"
"It's Chief, the police dog!" howled Mrs. Fox. "Oh! Oh! Come on! Run!"
"That isn't Chief, the police dog," yapped Clarence. "His false face came off! That's the real Uncle Wiggily! Grab him!"
"No you don't!" shouted another voice. "I am the real Chief the police dog!"
And so it was, Chief, in his own uniform and not in masquerade costume, had come to the Halloween celebration.

Herring Up to 11,138 Tons

Herring fishermen of British Columbia are now reaping a significant silver harvest. Most of the herring fleet is concentrating in the lower east coast area of Vancouver Island, and from that district so far has come more than 8,638 tons of the small fish.

The season opened late this year, due to a price dispute between the fishermen and operators, but to date the total herring catch is past the 11,138-ton mark. That figure covers catches made in the central, lower, middle and upper east Vancouver Island.

The herring harvest at this time last year was 46,686 tons.
